

UTAH

RATINGS/CRITERIA:

Candidates were evaluated on their acceptance of climate change as a real, human-caused problem, their willingness to engage in dialogue about climate action, their voting record on climate-related legislation (if available), their willingness to engage with POW AF, the extent to which climate is a priority in their campaign, leadership displayed on climate issues in general, fossil fuel industry campaign donor records, and whether or not they have championed climate legislation.

Any candidate polling publicly above 10% was evaluated.

CANDIDATES FOR THE US HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

District 1:

BEN MCADAMS: Black Diamond

McAdams recognizes climate change as an existential threat and has pledged to protect Bears Ears, Grand Staircase-Escalante, and the Great Salt Lake. He pushes for strong clean energy grid investment.

RILEY OWEN: Green Circle

Owen refuses to directly acknowledge climate change but talks up environmental innovation. He supports Utah managing its own public lands and lacks a clear renewable energy or GHG emissions stance.

District 2:

BLAKE MOORE: Green Circle

Moore has dismissed declaring a climate emergency and rarely votes in favor of climate policy. He backed some public lands modernization bills and voiced support for renewables, but ultimately voted for the largest cuts to clean energy tax credits and climate progress legislation (OBBBA).

PETER CROSBY: Blue Square

Crosby frames his environmental platform around Great Salt Lake restoration and public lands protection instead. He advocates for clean water and energy but fails to emphasize a broader renewable energy or GHG emissions policy position.

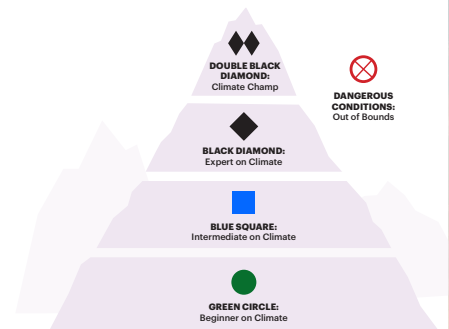

Disclaimer: This Voter Guidebook includes information about all federal candidates for public office. This Guidebook is for informational purposes. For all races, our researchers reviewed candidates' websites, social media, the public record, and nonpartisan news outlets to pull information for inclusion. Candidates researched include all major party candidates, polling at least 10%, running for US House and US Senate in the following geographies: CO, NV, MT, OR, ME, UT, NM, NH, and CA.

District 3:KENT UDELL: Blue Square

Udell doesn't address climate change directly but centers his campaign on land and water conservation. He backs a renewable and fossil fuel mixed energy approach and vows to protect public lands.

CELESTE MALOY: Out of Bounds

Maloy fiercely opposes any climate regulations, favors fossil fuel development and pushes to sell off public lands. She voted to overturn a federal rule setting greenhouse gas emission restriction measures.

District 4:*JONNY LARSEN: Blue Square

Larsen has not made public statements on climate change or renewable energy. He's been vocal on public lands, opposing sell-off efforts by Mike Lee and Celeste Maloy and pledging to protect grazing access and PILT funding for rural communities.

MIKE KENNEDY: Green Circle

Kennedy does not vote for environmental protection, and he advocates opening federal land for housing. He backs expanding fossil fuel production with some support for renewable energy.
